

A pair of hands is shown, palms facing each other, holding a world map. The map is spread across the fingers and the palms. The fingers are positioned to hold the map's edges, while the palms support the central part. The map is a standard world map with various colors representing different continents and countries. The word "WORLD" is visible on the left palm. The hands are positioned against a white background.

